Charter of Good Conduct:

1) The position, the tasks and the responsibilities you will be given during your work placement will be determined by your level of English, your professional experience and your attitude (punctuality, commitment, initiative, presentation, etc.)

Atlas is not responsible for professional development or the internal relations with the management or other employees of the host company.

2) You must always be contactable during the period of the work placement search so that the consultants can organise telephone interviews if required. You must also keep us informed of the outcome of each interview.

3) The agency can stop your programme if:

- You refuse, without serious reason, the interviews or the work placement proposed to you
- You do not respect the working hours, working conditions, the uniform or the discipline in the host company
- You do not respect the rules in your accommodation and/or your school
- You quit your work placement without informing us of any difficulties incurred, without giving the required period of notice to your employer before your departure
- You are not contactable by email or telephone, for 48 hours during the work placement search without having informed us of any unavailability
